Developing a new generation of equity-focused educational leaders

Free Hybrid Series

FOUR ESSENTIAL ROLES OF LEADERSHIP

The world is changing at an unprecedented rate. Leaders are making countless decisions and facing new challenges. What worked yesterday might not work today. The stakes are high, but the rewards are great for educational leaders who can lead a team to consistently deliver extraordinary results. Franklin Covey spent years researching what organizations need from their leaders. This LPL will enable leaders to differentiate their performance and meet the challenges facing schools today.

Participants will create a site and team vision and learn how to develop and execute a strategic plan. Working collaboratively, participants will refine their strategic narrative and align processes to the Six Rights.
